

Police Drag-Net Gathers
13 Violators of Traffic Rules Over Week-End

Motorists Fall Afoul of Move
To Compel Strict
Observance

2 DRUNKEN AUTOISTS Four New Yorkers Were in Car Which None of Them Owned

Thirteen persons fell into the clutches of the police over the weekend for violation of traffic regulations and were the first victims of a strict interpretation of traffic laws, which the Department proposes to carry out in rigid enforcement.

Four of the ten were held to await action of the authorities of New York.
Three were held under bail for court and six paid the fines and costs, amounting to $13.85 each.

Those arrested.
Elliott Shaw, Lansdale, passing trolley car. Fined $13.85.
Francis Freyhart, Trenton, N. J., driving on wrong side of traffic beacon at Bath and Otter streets. Fined $13.85.

P. M. Dewitt, Bensalem, driving on wrong side of traffic beacon, Bath and Otter streets. Fined $13.85.

Charles Milnor, Bath Road, passing
trolley car. Fined $13.85.

E. J. McMahon, Philadelphia, driving on wrong side of traffic beacon, Bath and Otter streets. Fined $13.85.

Adolph Nicoliza, 1068 Pond street, Bristol; passing on wrong side of traffic beacon, Bath and Otter streets.
Fine $13.85.

John Mace, Lafayette street, operating automobile while intoxicated. Held for court under $500 bail.

Emilie Boulaie, Philadelphia, operating a motorcycle while under the influence of liquor. Held in $500 bail for court.

Joseph Wetter, Herman Krause, John Hurley, Leroy Sharkey, all of New York, held on request of New York authorities, and wanted for operating a car which did not belong to them.

The police, Chief Sackville, says are going to rigidly enforce all traffic regulations. Motorists must learn that they must obey the traffic laws or suffer the penalty.

Drivers of motor vehicles must pass the traffic beacons on the right side.
They must not drive on the left hand side of these beacons. Then the officers are going after the fellows who get intoxicated and proceed to drive about in their machines.

Motor laws must be obeyed, the department says, and arrests are to be made of those who attempt to violate the traffic laws.

Start Non-Stop
Flight To New York

Wealthy California Sportsman
To Fly From California
To Metropolis

HOPPED OFF EARLY

By International News Service.
RIVERSIDE, California, June 27—David R. Davis, a wealthy young California sportsman and Eric Springer, a pilot today began what they plan to be a non-stop flight from Southern California to New York.

They left March Field, near here, a few minutes before six o'clock this morning in the Davis trans-continental, a huge biplane of the tractor type and hope to land at Mineola, L. I., within thirty hours of actual flying time.

Davis told the International News Service that the huge machine would be headed toward El Paso. After the mountainous region has been passed, the aviators will turn toward New York.

"We will attempt to follow no definite path," said Davis. "We will endeavor to reach New York in the shortest possible time."

Reformer Will Seek To Have Fighters Enjoined

CAMDEN, N. J., June 27—Clinton L.
Howard, Secretary of the International Reform Bureau, arrived in Camden today to petition Vice Chancellor Edmund D. Leaning for an injunction to stop the Dempsey-Carpentier bout, in Jersey City, July 2.

"We shall ask for an injunction on the ground that the State Boxing Commission has exceeded its rights and authority in supervising a bloody knockout, finish, prize fight under the camouflage of a boxing contest without a knock out or physical punishment."

Howard lives in Buffalo, N. Y., and is widely known as "the little giant of Prohibition."

Legion Ladies Aid
Benefit For Home

Robert Bracken Post's Auxiliary Arousing Interest in Thursday's Event

LOCAL TALENT SECURED

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary, Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion are now making an intensive campaign for the benefit which the auxiliary is to give in the Forrest theatre on Thursday evening. The proceeds from the benefit are to be used toward the purchase of a home for the Legion boys.

In addition to the picture of Georges Carpentier in "The Wonder Man," there are to be several selections by the Legion orchestra, which is gaining quite a reputation for excellent playing. The orchestra is to be on hand and will be liberal in the number of selections given.

All of the vaudeville talent is to be of a local nature. The Granville Sisters of Harriman, will dance and Miss Margaret McNea, the gold medal dancer of Pennsylvania is to be on the program and will give her usual Scottish dances.

Solos will be sung by Mr. Andrew MacArthur, who is a favorite vocalist in this section.

"The Wonder Man," the Robertson-Cole production starring Georges Carpentier, French war hero and challenger of Jack Dempsey for the World's Heavyweight Championship title, is a picture with a real plot—a fascinating story of American society life—a series of lavish settings and a star of international prominence.

The story of the picture is gripping and the action is swift and realistic.
Faure Binney, a screen star of note, is the leading woman. She gives a delightful performance. The remainder of the cast is equally good. The settings and photography could not be improved upon.

Italians Come to Blows
Over A Girl, It is Said

Two Italians—Joseph Leoelin and Philip Phillip, became engaged in an argument last night on Jefferson avenue, near the old line of the railroad and it was but a short time before a near riot was in force.

The argument had something to do with marrying a certain girl but it was impossible to learn the exact details. Both men were placed under arrest and fined $7.50 each for disorderly conduct.

Posses Search For Young Girl's Assailant

Infuriated Citizens And Police Comb Suburbs For Fiendish Negro

THREATEN A LYNCHING

By International News Service.
PHILADELPHIA, June 26—Posses of armed, infuriated citizens reinforcing strong squads of police continued today their search for the negro who, foiled in a fiendish attempt to assault 15 year old Nellie Mandell, slashed her throat with a razor.

The girl had been visiting her mother in Kingston, a suburb of Wilkes Barre and had just reached the entrance of her home on Hagert street, here, after midnight when a negro who had trailed her from the trolley, crept up behind her. He gripped the girl around the neck and warned her not to scream.

Nellie, however dropped her suitcase, and, amid yells for help, tried to shake off his grip. As a policeman came running to her rescue the black man drew a razor and slashed a vicious gash across her throat and another over her hand. The whole northwestern part of the city is being scoured today by parties bent on lynching.

Another Sims in the Navy

PARIS, June 27—Another American naval officer has adopted the outspoken manner of Admiral Sims, according to L'Homme Libre today.

Real Admiral T. H. MacCruder, U. S. N., naval attache to the American Embassy, was quoted by the newspaper as saying at the inauguration of the American Home for Convalescent Con-sumptives:

"Whatever comes, the United States always will come to the aid of France if France should be attacked. Our ambassador could not tell you that, but I can. My words do not need to be diplomatic."

Picnickers Enjoy
Three Big Outings

Held By Insurance Company Staff, Church Choir and Sunday School

BAPTIST S. S. SPORTS

The season of picnics is now on in full swing. Saturday three organizations held outings, which have become a feature of the summer season.

The members of the staff of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, along with their families, enjoyed the day at Maple Beach. The choir of the Presbyterian Church went to Florence Heights in motor yachts and had a jolly time along the banks of the Delaware. The members of the Sunday school of the First Baptist Church journeyed to Neshaminy Falls and spent a delightful day at that picnic grounds.

The Presbyterian choir after an enjoyable trip on the river, reached Florence Heights where supper was served and outdoor sports enjoyed. The Heights is a fine place for such an outing and the affair was one of the most successful enjoyed by this musical organization.

There were close to 100 persons who went with the Baptist picnic. Four motor trucks and two touring cars transported the happy folk. On their arrival at the Falls they proceeded to participate in all kinds of games and contests. Five prizes were awarded for the contests.

Lester Bailey won the high jump at 46 inches and also won the plate breaking contest while blindfolded.
The sack race was won by Robert Weik and he and Thomas Argus captured the three-legged race. The Rev.
Howard L. Zepp, the pastor, not to be outdone by his church folk won the 100 yard dash for the adults.

There were tug-of-war between the girls and the boys and the married men and the single men. Each was declared a tie contest.

Premier Smuts May Be Irish Arbiter

Sinn Fein Leaders Confer on Answer—Ulster
Balks

THE KILLINGS CONTINUE

BY EARLE C. REEVES
Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
LONDON, June 27—Jan Christian Smuts, Premier of South Africa, who is in London attending the Imperial conference may be chosen to mediate between the factions in the Irish strife, it was learned this afternoon.

Colleagues of Premier Smuts declared that he has a keen insight into Ireland's troubles and would accept a direct invitation to mediate.

Directly questioned as to his willingness to serve as mediator, Premier Smuts evaded a definite answer but expressed the greatest optimism over a satisfactory settlement of the Irish issue.

The Cabinet expects a reply from Eamon De Valera to Premier Lloyd George's invitation to come to London for a peace parley within forty eight hours.

BELFAST, June 27—Opposition to Ulsters participation in Premier Lloyd George's proposed, "Irish peace conference," developed here today.

William Coote, an Orange leader and member of the northern Ireland (Ulster) Parliament, charged that a plot is on foot "to subjugate Ulster to the Dublin Parliament."

"We shall decline to deal with murderers," said Coote.

Sir James Craig, the premier, has summoned a meeting of the Ulster cabinet tomorrow to discuss formally the invitation of Premier Lloyd George.

DUBLIN, June 27—Sinn Fein leaders today began conferring upon the reply which will be made to Premier

Will Tell Mothers
About Babies Care
In Hot Weather

Health Center Arranges Event
In Effort to Lessen Mortality

ALL MOTHERS INVITED

Dr. LeCompte to Speak in English, Dr. Rubertone
In Italian

The precariousness of baby life at this season of the year has prompted the doctors and nurses in charge of the Health Center to arrange a special afternoon of instruction for mothers in the care of babies in hot weather.

Dr. William LeCompte and Dr. Nicola Rubertone will talk to the mothers on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Community House, Cedar and Dorrance streets. The affair will be under the auspices of the Health Center. Dr. LeCompte will be the principal speaker, addressing the mothers in English, and Dr. Rubertone will follow with a talk on the same subject in Italian.

The physicians will explain to the assembled mothers how to feed their babies, how to bathe and attend to them, how much rest they should have, how much clothing they should wear, etc. They will also explain to the mothers what to do when the baby shows signs of illness, how to detect the various ailments of Summer time and particularly of hot weather, what to do before the doctor arrives; what to have ready for the doctor, and all other details of the proper care and attention of the little ones.

Mothers of all classes and races are earnestly invited to attend. The proper care of the baby in hot weather is not a problem of the poorer mothers alone, but is often a nerve-trying question with the mother whose circumstances enable her to command the best attention for her baby. The mother of the latter class, particularly if young and inexperienced, may be in a quandary to know what immediate steps to take to relieve her baby, whom her mother instinct most likely tells her is suffering or is physically deranged. She may also be able to provide every comfort for her babe, but not the most modern, scientific and hygienic methods of doing so.

Italian mothers are especially invited to be present and Dr. Rubertone will undoubtedly give them a most interesting and instructive talk on the subject in their own tongue. News of the affair, and invitations to attend, have been spread through the Italian section.

Refreshments will be served to the attending mothers by the committee of ladies deputized by the Health Center to have charge of the affair.

Miss Laurie Gillick, State Health Department nurse assigned to Bristol and Miss Nora L. Jones, Community Nurse for the Bristol Red Cross, will be in attendance, and, besides assisting Drs. LeCompte and Rubertone, will assist the committee of ladies.

Baby mortality has always been very high in Bristol, 94 out of every 1,000 babies born have died. 40 per cent of these have died of congenital malnutrition; 25 per cent. from diarrhoea, enteritis and other ailments of the intestinal tract; 20 per cent.
from disease ailments of the respiratory tract, such as pneumonia, etc.,

British Submarine
Mysteriously Sunk

By International News Service.

LONDON, June 27—The British submarine K-15 mysteriously sank at the Portsmouth navy yard early today.

The submarine, which was anchored in the dockyard basin was seen to be foundering and six sailors who were sleeping on board were aroused. They barely escaped with their lives.

Another submarine of the K. class was lost in a mysterious manner while enroute for the Mediterranean. She sank not far from the Irish coast and no trace of her was ever found.

It was reported at the time that Sinn Feiners may have been responsible but the admiralty scouted such a theory.

Submarines of the K. class, from 2 to 16, displace 2,000 tons and carry crews of 55 men. Each is equipped with eight torpedo tubes.

Disabled "Vets"
Appeal For Action

Urge That Soldiers' Relief Measures Be Pushed
Through at Once

CONVENTION OPENS

By International News Service.
WASHINGTON, June 27—"Take the direction of soldier relief work out of the hands of school teachers, labor agitators and impractical theorists and place it in the hands of the disabled veterans themselves, who understand the needs of the soldiers."

This was the keynote sounded today by hundreds of disabled veterans of the world war when they gathered here for the first annual convention of the National disabled soldiers league.
The veterans are going to drive hard at official Washington this week to bring about the accomplishment of this aim.

The convention opened in central high school with an address by George H. Gillen, the retiring National commander. The election of a permanent chairman and the appointment of many committees were the principal features of the day's program. Late this afternoon the veterans will be addressed by Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts.

The government can be saved millions of dollars and the soldiers will receive far greater benefits if Gillen said by the elimination of the "school teachers, the labor agitators and the impractical theorists who have all but made the administration of soldier relief work a grim joke." He referred to the $226,486,891.34 for compensation and death claims which the war risk insurance bureau has paid out.

Defective Flue For $5,000
Blaze On Sunday Morning

SAVE ADJOINING HOUSE

Headley Manor Fire Company
And Local Companies
At Scene

Fire yesterday morning destroyed a large two-story building and its contents, located near the two mile lock of the canal at Edgely. The loss is roughly estimated at $5,000 by the Fire Department.

The building was a stone barn which had been converted into a dwelling.
There was another dwelling immediately adjoining but this building escaped damage. All of the contents were removed and saved from being damaged. Both buildings are owned by William Moles, of the 3M Realty Company. The property destroyed was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Sugden, who formerly resided at Radcliffe and Lafayette streets, Bristol.
The dwelling adjoining is occupied by Peter Lapoint.

The origin of the blaze has not been determined, but it is thought that possibly a defective flue might have been the cause. There was a fire in the stove Mr. Sugden was at home at the time, as his wife is away on a visit. He endeavored to extinguish the flames but was unsuccessful. The Headley Manor Fire Company was the first to respond and did good work. An alarm was telephoned to Bristol and companies went from there, but, on their arrival, found the structure a mass of flames.

All of the Sugden furniture was destroyed along with the building. Included in the furniture were 2 pianos One of these dropped from the second floor to the basement.

Neighbors in the vicinity of the blaze were somewhat alarmed for a time yesterday. They feared a spread of the fire and the possible destruction of other dwellings in the section.

Dense clouds of heavy black smoke caused by the burning of beaver board, which lined the interior of the Sugden residence, was easily seen from Bristol.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Dew-snap requested the Courier to extend their appreciation to both the Headley Manor and th Bristol firemen for the excellent and prompt services rendered.

In addition to the furniture of the Sugden family there was a piano, winter clothing and other effects belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bode,

AN EDUCATIONAL WANT

Physical training becomes a part of the curriculum of the Bristol public schools with the beginning of the Fall term. This branch has been added under a State law of recent enactment affecting the entire public school system.

Bristol has not been as backward in recognizing the need of and providing physical training for its youth as have many other larger communities in the State, but there has been no organized effort in this respect in our community.

The new state law is, however, a warranty desired by those who have long favored physical training for Bristol children. Their ideals can now become accomplished facts, through the corroboration of the new law.

Bristol's recognition of the value of this branch of education for the young and its eagerness to proceed at once to establish it is indicated in the School Board's selection to fill the vacancy of principal of the High School of one who is equipped and trained to supervise this branch of the curriculum in the Bristol public schools.

The ability and fitness of Mr. Franklin Butz, who comes as principal of the High School in the Fall, for directing physical education had, it is understood, much to do with his selection.

It is somewhat strange that a virile, vigorous, sport-loving nation such as ours has been so generally backward in making the physical training of youth a subject of Government recognition. Our nation has had the example of a number of the European countries to profit by and the illustration afforded by many of the additions to our citizenry those countries have sent us. The newcomers to our shores from the Scandinavian and Slovenian countries, Germany and England, have for instance tried to do all they could to inspire us to a recognition of the value of physical education by preserving, in this country, their turnvereins, their sokols, and other athletic and physical culture organizations.

Japan has had physical education of children for 20 years. Sweden has had universal physical education for a very long time. Great Britain provides national co-operation with local communities having physical education.

The United States claims to be the most progressive country in the world. Yet it is a way behind these other nations in physical training. Not over one tenth of our school pupils have this form of development. Recent school surveys have shown that more than half of the school children are below par physically. The experience of the draft boards demonstrated that one third of our young men are not physically fit.

It is amazing that the United States, which is as rich as when it entered the war, can not do as much for its children as the debt laden nations of Europe. There are differences of opinion as to whether physical education should be a federal or state enterprise, but that is a minor point. The essential thing is to do something to turn out a physically efficient race of young people.

The Washington Post remarks that May is the month to go fishing, while in June the brides get them hooked. In July the fat is fried out.

A SONG OF HOME

A movement is on foot to raise a $50,000 memorial for Stephen Foster, the man who wrote "Swanee River," and other minstrel songs, this offering to take the form of an endowment for the New York Bowery bread line. The interest that has been taken in this noted song writer is significant as showing the kind of sentiment that best appeals to the American heart.

The thought back of these simple songs was always the love for home. "All the world seems sad and lonely, Everywhere I roam," ran this pathetic bit of homely verse. These songs express the noble idea that no matter how humble a man's dwelling might be, there is a sweetness and a joy in your old home that does not usually come in any adopted residence.

Many people must give up home ties in these times to make a living, but the old homes are too little valued and too often sacrificed for illusory hopes of making money.

THE MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

The Secretary of War is appealing to young men to join the camps to be organized this summer for military training. He also urges business men to co-operate, by giving employees leave of absence for the same.

The success of the camps depends largely upon the attitude of employers. If they as a rule refuse to allow employees to absent themselves to take this training, it will be hard to get the desired enlistments. But if they are generous and patriotic about it, many thousands of fellows would like to enter these camps. It will be splendidly beneficial to these young men in health and discipline, and will go far to put the United States on such a basis of military readiness that no nation will dare to provoke us the way Germany did.

SPIRIT OF NON-PERFORMANCE

A veteran high school principal was speaking recently of the great numbers of young men of his acquaintance who had been willing to work long hours so as to get a start in life. But since the war, he said, people seem to be banded together to have an easy time and to accomplish as little for themselves as possible for the largest pay.

There is a story going the rounds of a man who was employed on war work during the period of inflation and extravagance, and who was asked how he liked his job. He said he didn't like it. "Don't you get good pay?" they asked him. "O yes," he said, "I get very large pay." "But perhaps you have to work too hard," they asked. "O, no," he said, "I don't have to work more than half the time." "Well, what is the matter then," they inquired of him, "if you get high pay and only have to work half the time?"

"Well, you see," he said, "I don't like to be watched so close. There's a fellow there that follows me around all the time watching me, and I don't like to be watched that way." Later he pointed out a mysterious and uncommunicative individual who at that moment was hanging around near by. "That man?" they replied. "Why that fellow is your helper. He has to follow you round so as to help you when you need it."

This story, like the reported death of Mark Twain, might be greatly exaggerated, yet it does give some idea of conditions as they existed during the war period among many people. There was the spirit of doing as little as you can for the highest possible pay. It produced costly conditions of production that lifted prices up to the highest level ever known, and which made great numbers of people unable to buy.

This inability to buy commodities produced on this abnormal level, cut down consumption, and led to the unemployment recently existing. This is a working world, and unless most people are willing to take hold and "do with their might what their hands find to do," conditions will be abnormal and the industrial machine will run irregularly.

THE TUG OF PEACE

By MORRIS

I won't have none o' yer weevily wheat,
I won't have none o' yer barley;
I won't have none o' yer weevily wheat,
To make a cake for Charley.

Charley is a fine young man, Charley is a dandy, Charley likes to kiss the girls,
Whenever it comes handy.

When a victim was caught in the flying scrimmage at the end of a passage in the game of Prisoners, he or she was brought before the blind-folded judge:

"Heavy, heavy hangs over your head," said the constable.

"Fine or superfine?" the judge inquired.

"Fine," said the constable, which meant that the victim was a boy. Then the sentence was pronounced and generally it was this:

"Go bow to the wittiest, kneel to the prettiest and kiss the one that you love best."

Harry was the first prisoner. He went straight to Blm Kelso and bowed and knelt, and when he had risen she turned and ran like a scared deer around the chairs and the crowd of onlookers, some assisting and some checking her flight, before the nimble youth. Hard pressed, she ran out of the open door, with a merry laugh, and just beyond the steps Harry caught and kissed her, and her cheeks had the color of roses when he led her back.

John McNeil kissed Ann Rutledge that evening and was most attentive to her, and the women were saying that the two had fallen in love with each other.

"See how she looks at him," one of them whispered.

"Well, it's just the way he looks at her," the other answered.

At the first pause in the merryment Kelso stood on a chair, and then silence fell upon the little company.

"My good neighbors," he began, "we are here to rejoice that new friends have come to us and that a new home is born in our midst. We bid them welcome. They are big-boned, big-hearted folks. No man has grown large who has not at one time or another had his feet in the soil and felt its magic power going up into his blood and bone and sinew. Here is a wonderful soil and the inspiration of wide horizons; here are broad and fertile fields. Where the corn grows high you can grow statesmen. It may be that out of one of these little cabins a man will come to carry the torch of Liberty and Justice so high that its light will shine into every dark place. So let no one despise the cabin—humble as it is. Samson and Sarah Traylor, I welcome and congratulate you. Whatever may come, you can find no better friends than these, and of this you may be sure, no child of the prairies will ever go about with a hand organ and a monkey. Our friend, Honest Abe, is one of the few rich men in this neighborhood. Among his assets are 'Kirkham's Grammar,' 'The Pilgrim's Progress,' the 'Lives of Washington and Henry Clay,' 'Hamlet's Soliloquy,' 'Othello's Speech to the Senate,' 'Marc Anthony's Address' and a part of 'Webster's Reply to Hayne.' A man came along the other day and sold him a barrel of rubbish for two bits. In it he found a volume of 'Blackstone's Commentaries.' Old Blackstone challenged him to a wrestle and Abe has grappled with him."

recon he'll take his measure as easily as he took Jack Armstrong's. Lately he has got possession of a noble asset. It is 'The Cotter's Saturday Night,' by Robert Burns. I propose to ask him to let us share his enjoyment of this treasure."

Abe, who had been sitting with his legs doubled beneath him on a buffalo skin, between Joe and Betsey Traylor, rose and said:

"Mr. Kelso's remarks, especially the part which applied to me, remind me of the story of the prosperous grocer of Joliet. One Saturday night he and his boys were busy selling sausage. Suddenly in came a man with whom he had quarreled and laid two dead cats on the counter.

"There," said he, 'this makes seven today. I'll call Monday and get my money.'

"We were doing a good business here making fun. It seems a pity to ruin it and throw suspicion on the quality of the goods by throwing a cat on the counter."

This raised a storm of merriment, after which he recited the poem of Burns, with keen appreciation of its quality. Samson repeatedly writes of his gift for interpretation, especially of the comic, and now and then lays particular stress on his power of mimicry.

John Cameron sang "The Sword of Bunker Hill" and "Forty Years Ago, Tom." Samson played while the other people danced until midnight. Then, after noisy farewells, men, women and children started in the moonlit road toward the village. Ann Rutledge had Abe on one arm and John McNeil on the other.

CHAPTER VI.

Which Describes the Lonely Life in a Prairie Cabin and a Stirring Adventure on the Underground Railroad About the Time It Began Operations.

When Samson paid Mr. Gollaher, a "detector" came with the latter to look at the money before it was accepted. There were many counterfeits and bills good only at a certain discount of face value going about those days and the detector was in great request. Directly after moving in, Samson dug a well and lined it with a hollow log. He bought tools and another team and then he and Harry began their fall plowing. Day after day for weeks they paced with their turning furrows until a hundred acres, stretching half a mile to the west and well to the north of the house, were black with them. Fever and ague descended upon the little home in the early winter.

Maximum of Efficiency Maintained In Operation of Superdreadnought Fleet

Officers and Men Not Kept in Ignorance of Political Activities--Silence is the Rule--Need for Preparedness Recognized

This is the last of a series of five articles on the United States Navy of today and the lessons are being made effective as a result of the World War.

BY CHARLES E. HUGHES

Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
U. S. S. NEW MEXICO FLAGSHIP PACIFIC FLEET LOS ANGELES HARBOR, CAL., June 27—In portions of the nation far removed from the seaboard, especially in the interior of the country, the question is often raised: "Why are so many millions of dollars necessary in constructing a modern battleship?"

To one who has had the opportunity of going over every foot of a great superdreadnought like this New Mexico the answer is simple.

The reason our great sea fighting units cost so much is because they are the last words in naval perfection at the time they are built. And to be such they had to be equipped with the best, as well as the most efficient and durable mechanisms. This has to be kept up to the highest possible standard and constantly renewed.

The correspondent was taken into a magazine of powder used to supply the energy of the fourteen-inch rifles a little over fifty-eight feet long and of which the New Mexico carries twelve, located in four turrets—two forward and two aft.

On one of the walls of steel was a glass jar partly filled with powder, broken up into small sticks and appearing something like broken sticks of hoarhound candy. Inside the cap of the jar was a piece of chemically treated paper. If it turned a certain color it showed the powder was deteriorating in strength.

The same method is used in various forms throughout the ship. Everywhere there is a check to see if anything is happening daily to possibly render the superdreadnought inefficient.

When even the smallest defect is found it is immediately remedied. At the same time there is a continual comparison being made of the performances of the ship's mechanical odds and ends so that as new war vessels are laid down they can be rendered more efficient than craft of the type of only a year or two previous.

If there can be said to be one objective in the navy regarded more important than anything else it undoubtedly is efficiency with saving of time and effort. One has only to watch the loading of the three fourteen-inch guns in one of the turrets to ascertain this. From the depths of the New Mexico a charge of 460 pounds of powder, contained in four silken bags, is hoisted by electric elevators to the turret. Likewise a shell weighing 1,400 pound and containing a charge of thirty-three pounds of dunnite, a deadly explosive, is moved up by another electric elevator. The gun is loaded and its missile sent spinning away twelve and a half miles with a velocity of 2,800 feet a second, all within a few seconds.

While the twelve fourteen-inch guns are being fired fourteen other guns of five-inch calibre can be utilized for shorter range work, or held in reserve until they can become effective. If there was an engagement in which aircraft were attacking, four three-inch anti-aircraft guns would bark. And if the occasion arose for their use two submerged torpedo tubes would be available with their missiles of destruction.

“Bomb” Tossing In U. S. Air Service

With much talk of the Air Service bombing the Navy this summer, some bombs are being tossed about in the Air Service itself, with Brig.-Gen. William Mitchell as the target thereof—and Maj. Gen. Charles T. Menoher as the tosser. General Menoher, as Chief of the Air Service, has asked War Secretary Weeks to remove Gen. Mitchell from duty as Assistant Chief. It is understood that Gen. Menoher is displeased by Gen. Mitchell's argument that the Army and Navy flying services should be merged under a separate Department of Aviation and that an adequate air service would render the Navy obsolete and unnecessary.

DOYLESTOWN, June 27.—In the interest of the National Board of Fire Underwriters of New York, Thomas F. Dwyer, visited Doylestown Friday evening going over the equipment and building of the Doylestown Fire Company and requesting a demonstration of the pumper.

The pumping demonstration was given at the water works. The result of the demonstration was not satisfactory to Engineer Dwyer. The 500-gallon pump produced only 360 gallons of water a minute. George Hoag, of the water department accompanying Engineer Dwyer made an inspection of the equipment of the water works. No test was made of the water pressure at the hydrants on account of the scarcity of water. This test will be made at a later date.

Forrest Theatre

Earle Williams, in the role of Bob Bellamy in "Diamonds Adrift," the screen version of a thrilling tale of venture and romance by Frederick J. Jackson, will be seen tonight at the Forrest Theatre. The athletic young star appears to unusual advantage as the young Californian suddenly plunged into wild adventures in a small harbor city of Mexico. Old friends of Earle Williams will be highly gratified and new friends will be made.

"Diamonds Adrift" is a remarkable production in many respects, and close students of motion picture methods will give the director, Chester Bennett, great credit for his achievement to this work. He has produced striking effects which few directors, even in this day of intensive effort and striving toward supremacy, would have thought of. Provided with excellent material in the story itself and a star admirably equipped to portray the impressive stellar role, as well as a supporting company splendidly adapted to the parts assigned, Director Bennett has added materially to his already enviable record.

Bob Bellamy is a genial and altogether likeable young man who has not taken the trouble to think of making his own way in the world, his father being a wealthy shipowner, James Bellamy allows his son $200 a month and is inclined to let him play for a while after being graduated from the university. When Bob runs up $5,000 in bills however, besides spending the allowance, the elder Bellamy calls a halt stops the allowance and sends Bob to sea as supercargo on the steamer Alexander at $50 a month, telling him he must pay the $5,000 before he can have any further consideration. "Home Brew Hanson," chief mate, somewhat intoxicated, finds a cat on a garden wall and brings it aboard. The youngster who owned the cat had snapped his mother's new $30,000 bracelet about its neck, and $5,000 reward is offered for its return. Bob wins the cat from "Home Brew" in a cribbage game. After wild adventures in Mexico, in the course of which he wins and carries away a beautiful bride, Bob returns, claims the reward for the bracelet and re-establishes himself in his father's good graces.

"Diamonds Adrift" is replete with striking situations and is assured of popularity. It provides the popular Vitagraph star with an excellent vehicle for his dramatic ability. Beatrice Burnham makes a charming Senorita Consuela Velasco.

New Colonial Theatre

The announcement that Mary Pickford is to appear at the New Colonial Theatre today and tomorrow in her latest United Artists production, "The Love Light," is of unusual interest to her thousands of local admirers, for several reasons, one of them being that the star, and her author and director, Frances Marion, obtained the idea for the story, a great deal of the furnishings and some of the players while each was honeymooning with her respective husband, in Italy.

Miss Pickford and Miss Marion being close chums, and Douglass Fairbanks and Frederick Thompson being fast friends, it was only natural that they should meet on the other side of the Atlantic and spend their honeymoons together, and the two gifted girls sat on the rocks overlooking the Mediterranean in Northern Italy and planned the story.

Another reason for the great interest aroused by this production is that it is Miss Pickford's first appearance in an emotional drama following her announced policy of attempting new things and creating new paths in photoplay stories. It will be recalled that some time ago Miss Pickford announced that not only for her own artistic advancement, but for the advancement of the entire motion picture industry, she would endeavor to get away from the conventional hackneyed stories and attempts to present life as it really is.

In spite of the fact that this production has been announced as an emotional drama, it is said that this gripping story by Frances Marion is interspersed with a number of excellent comedy situations of the spontaneous order that always abounds in Mary Pickford's stories.

A relic of the old Spanish torture devices, little known is shown in the tenth episode of "Fighting Fate," the new Vitagraph chapter drama, which will be the attraction at the New Colonial theatre tonight. It is a stairway mounted on a pivot in such a way that when the controlling wheel is turned, the person mounting the stairs is suddenly dropped into a deep pit below. William Duncan, in the episode, is the man thus treated, and the incident is one of scores of thrilling happenings in the chapter play. The stairway was constructed after a real one leading to a famous torture chamber in Mexico City.

Loeb sack Issues Eight Free Passes to Langhorne But Wins Game

FINAL SCORE 13 TO 12

Although Loeb sack issued eight free passes to the Langhorne boys, he was able to tighten up in pinches and won the verdict in a very exciting and bitter contest, which was staged between the P. R. R. M. W. and Langhorne on the P. R. R. grounds, South Bristol Saturday afternoon.

The game was a see-saw affair, being tied up several times, especially in the ninth when the total stood 12-12 with two men on, only one down, when C. Foster was unable to handle Loeb sack's drive which sent the winning run over.

Premier Smuts May Be Irish Arbitor

Lloyd George's invitation to go to London to discuss Irish peace. It is probable that Eamon De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," will issue a statement in a day or two.

The question of accepting the invitation is being put up to Dail Eireann (the Sinn Fein parliament). It is probable that, if it is accepted Michael Collins, former "commander in chief of the Irish Republican army," will be one of De Valera's colleagues on the trip to London. Another probably will be Richard Mulcahy, "quartermaster general of the Irish Republican Army."

Many persons were killed and wounded in a new wave of week-end violence. Two members of the crown forces and a woman were shot to death in an ambush attack at Milltown. A Sinn Feiner was killed and five members of the Irish Republican Army captured in a battle at Clidagh. A constable was killed from ambush at Kildorrerey.

LONDON, June 27—While Premier Lloyd George is planning an Irish peace conference the British war office is preparing for fresh military measures against the Sinn Fein in the event the parley fails, it was revealed today. An Aldershot dispatch says that troops, destined for service in Ireland, are being especially trained for "block house warfare."

"By wise and economic expenditure of this sum, there would not now be thousands of veterans all over the country in actual suffering and want," Gillen said. "Funds have been inequitably and unjustly distributed. There has been no intelligent supervision."

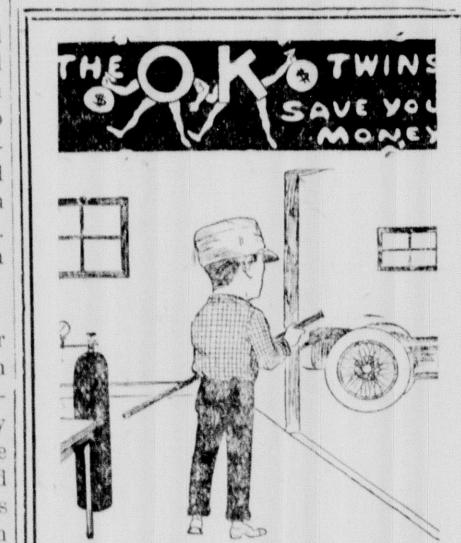

The veterans themselves understand their own problems far better than "school teachers and labor agitators," he said, "and if they loved their country well enough to sacrifice their limbs and eyes for it, they certainly love it well enough to save its money."

The convention will present hundreds of claims to the government bureaus during convention week, and seek speedy adjustment.

INSPIRATION ON THE WING

Great Compositions That Seem to Have Been Awaiting the Moment of Their Birth.

Charles Kingsley returned home one night rather dejected because a sermon he had preached that day in London had proved a little too "socialistic" for the incumbent. Instead of going to bed he paced back and forth in front of the fire, and his wife, knowing he was composing, left him and retired. In the morning he related to her that moving lyric:

"Three fishers went sailing out into the west Out into the west as the sun went down."

There is a tablet in the porch of Wrexham church to the memory of Bishop Heber, which records that the most popular of all missionary hymns was composed in the town. Reginald Heber, who was then vicar of Hodnet, happened to be staying at the vicarage with his father-in-law, Dr. Shipley, dean of St. Asaph's, who was to preach a missionary sermon on the Sunday.

Heber and other friends were assembled in the library on the Saturday, when the dean asked his son-in-law if he could write something for the service next morning. Heber retired to the farther end of the room for the purpose and at the end of 15 minutes he read the first three of the four verses of which the famous hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," consists.

His hearers were delighted, but Heber said the sense was not complete, and devoted another five minutes to the fourth stanza.

Blame Insanity

MAYFIELD, Ky., June 27—Although sudden insanity upon the part of one was held by some to be responsible for the death of 11 persons, Sheriff Marion McCain was proceeding today that plottied murder preceded the shooting and burning of five members of the family of Ernest Lawrence and six members of the family of Otis Drew, in a cabin six miles east of here.

Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Drew were sisters and devoted to one another. The families have visited back and forth often. The neighbors heard sounds of music shortly before midnight, then womens screams. The House took fire.

When neighbors arrived the house was enveloped in flames. A revolver with six empty cartridges, a double barreled shotgun and an axe were found near the charred bodies. An oil can, usually kept in the back yard was in the House and it is believed oil was poured on the bodies and furniture to hasten destruction.
